Managing Committee - 2018 - 19

FROM THE DESK OF PRESIDENT

“ Permanence, Perseverance and Persistence in spite of all obstacles, discouragements, and impossibilities: It is this, which in all things distinguishes the strong soul from the weak. ”

Niren K. Dharja (B.E)
President

Dear Members,

I hope that the content and the articles covered under this bi-monthly journal is of importance and useful to you. I request you to please send your valued feedback to us for improving the content to make it more resourceful and interesting.

My committee has interacted with other similar Association throughout the 2018-19 in getting useful information and data's to help EMA members and their wards under programs related to leadership and entrepreneurship. Interested members can also join our committee to attend such events in future.

I am indebted by the support of the members, past presidents, seniors and sponsors for their co-operation in fulfilling my vision of making EMA a brand to reckon with, not only within the electrical traders across Mumbai, but all across different Associations in Maharashtra and in some parts of India.

Next 45 days, India will witness the much awaited Lok Sabha election; where-in more than 1 billion people will exercise their right to vote to elect their next parliament. In the 70-odd years since India's independence, this will likely be the first election that seriously challenges the country's inclusive political culture. Implementation of significant reforms in recent years should alleviate transaction costs and improve the business environment. The government's reform efforts have led to a remarkable improvement in the World Bank's Ease of Doing Business ranking. Nevertheless, lingering difficulties in doing business remain including enforcing contracts, FDI inflows are also still lagging. We are all aware this activity will be interestingly watched not only in India but world across for the future reforms and investments.

Industrial Production in India was expected to be 4.80 percent by the end of the first quarter, according to Trading Economics global macro models and analysts' expectations. Looking forward, we estimate Industrial Production in India to stand at 5.00 in 12 months' time. In the long-term, the India Industrial Production is projected to trend around 6.50 percent in 2020, according to our econometric models. India's growth will be fuelled by the government initiatives of future Smart Cities.

Just a month ago, the ghastly attack on Indian paramilitary personnel in Pulwama took place. The act of killing others and oneself in the name of a cause has now couched itself amongst us and almost attained normality. In this new dastardly normal, the reaction too has been designated and sculpted into another series of violent acts – we call it vengeance. Whether or not we are physically engaged in the violence, every one of us deliberately articulates and espouses the sentiment. We the EMA members stand with the families of the martyrs who lost their life in this coward attack.

EMA, thanks to all the advertisers and the support from the publication committee has come up with sleek Executive Diary, which will be circulated to all members in the 2nd week of April 2019. Hopefully members would be thrilled to receive the same. EMA will also launch its NEW TELEPHONE DIRECTORY 2019 at 82nd AGM to be held in the last week of June 2019. Again I extend sincere gratitude to all the advertisers and Committee of Telephone directory for their hard work.

The application form for the New Managing Committee for the year 2019-20 will be issued in the first week of the June 2019 and I request interested members, who would like to work for the betterment of EMA to take the opportunity to serve 81 year old institution.

Forthcoming changes in E-Waybill system

(Date: 25-03-2019)

1. Auto calculation of route distance based on PIN code for generation of EWB

Now, E-waybill system is being enabled to auto calculate the route distance for movement of goods, based on the Postal PIN codes of source and destination locations. That is, the e-waybill system will calculate and display the actual distance between the supplier and recipient addresses. User is allowed to enter the actual distance as per his movement of goods. However, it will be limited to 10% more than the displayed distance for entry. That is, if the system has displayed the distance between Place A and B, based on the PIN codes, as 655 KMs, then the user can enter the actual distance up to 720KMs (655KMs + 65KMs). In case, the source PIN and destination PIN are same, the user can enter up to a maximum of 100KMs only. If the PIN entered is incorrect, the system would alert the user as INVALID PIN CODE. However, he can continue entering the distance. Further, these e-waybills having INVALID PIN codes are flagged for review by the department.

Route distance calculation between source and destination uses the data from various electronic sources. This data employs various attributes, for example: road class, direction of travel, average speed, traffic data etc. These attributes are picked up from traffic that is on National highways, state highways, expressways, district highways as well as main roads inside the cities. A proprietary logic is then used for approximating the distance between two postal pin codes. The distance thus derived is then provided as the motorable distance at that point of time.

2. Blocking of generation of multiple E-Way Bills on one Invoice/document

Based on the representation received by the transporters, the government has decided not to allow generation of multiple e-way bills based on one invoice, by any party – consignor, consignee and transporter. That is, once E-way Bill is generated with an invoice number, then none of the parties - consignor, consignee or transporter - can generate the E-Way Bill with the same invoice number. One Invoice, One E-way Bill policy is followed. The change will come in the next version.

3. Extension of E-Way Bill in case Consignment is in Transit

The transporters had represented to incorporate the provision to extend the E-way Bill, when the goods are in transit. The transit means the goods could be on Road or in Warehouse. This facility is being incorporated in the next version for the extension of E-way Bill.

During the extension of the e-way bill, the user is prompted to answer whether the Consignment is in Transit or in Movement. On selection of In Transit, the address details of the transit place need to be provided. On selection of In Movement the system will prompt the user to enter the Place and Vehicle details from where the extension is required. In both these scenarios, the destination PIN will be considered from the PART-A of the E-way Bill for calculation of distance for movement and validity date. Route distance will be calculated as explained above.

4. Blocking of Interstate Transactions for Composition dealers

As per the GST Act, the composition tax payers are not supposed to do Interstate transactions. Hence next version will not allow generation of e-way bill for inter-state movement, if the supplier is composition tax payer. Also, the supplies of composition tax payers will not be allowed to enter any of the taxes under CGST or SGST for intrastate transactions. In case of Composition tax payer, document type of Tax Invoice will not be enabled.

Various changes under Income-tax law applicable from April 1, 2019.*

1. Section 87A rebate

The amount of tax rebate under Section 87A has been increased from Rs. 2,500 to Rs. 12,500. Further, it shall be available to a resident individual whose total income does not exceed Rs.5,00,000.

2. Standard deduction from salary

The limit of standard deduction for the salaried class taxpayers has been increased from Rs. 40,000 to Rs. 50,000.

3. No deemed rental income on having two residential house properties

If an individual owns more than one self-occupied house property then only one house property as per his choice is treated as self-occupied and its annual value is computed as nil. The other house property is deemed to be let-out as per section 23 and a notional rent is computed and charged to tax under the head 'Income from House Property'.

Section 23 has been amended with effect from 1/4/2019 to provide relief to the taxpayers by allowing them an option to claim nil annual value in respect of any two houses declared as self-occupied.

Though from F.Y. 2019-20, an assessee can claim annual value as nil in respect of two-self occupied house properties. However, there is no change in aggregate limit for deduction in respect of interest on housing loan. The aggregate deduction for interest on housing loan for both houses cannot exceed Rs. 30000 or Rs. 2,00,000.

4. Section 54 relief extended to 2 residential houses

Any long-term capital gains, arising to an Individual or HUF, from the sale of residential house property is exempted to the extent such capital gains are invested in another residential house property. The taxpayer is allowed to invest only in one residential house in India to claim section 54 relief. From financial Year 2019-20, an assessee shall be able to claim exemption under section 54 even if he invests in two residential houses in India. However, this benefit shall be available where the amount of the capital gain does not exceed two crore rupees. Further, if the assessee exercises this option, he shall not be subsequently entitled to exercise the option for the same or any other assessment year, i.e., the assessee can exercise this option only once in a lifetime.

5. TDS on interest income

Section 194A deals with deduction of TDS on interest income other than interest on securities like interest on Fixed Deposits. Section 194A has been amended to ease the burden of compliance by way of increasing the threshold limit from Rs. 10,000 to Rs. 40,000 for deduction of tax at source on interest income, other than interest on securities, paid by a banking company, co-operative society or a post office.

6. TDS on rental income

The threshold limit for deduction of tax at source under section 194-I on rental income has been increased from Rs. 1,80,000 to Rs. 2,40,000.

7. Amendment to DTAA with Singapore and Mauritius

Protocols with Mauritius and Singapore were signed in year 2016 to tax capital gains. The protocol gave India the right to tax capital gains on transfer of shares of an Indian Company acquired on or after 1 April, 2017. Up to March 31, 2019 tax rates on capital gains is charged at 50% of the prevailing domestic rates. With effect from April 1, 2019 capital gains shall be charged at full domestic tax rates.

PICNIC TO GIR, SOMNATH & DIU (28th Feb - 6th Mar)

The Picnic & Technical Visit Committee, under the aegis of the Managing Committee, organized the 24th edition of this annual event, by organizing a trip to Sasan Gir, Somnath and Diu. It's been twenty four years since this event was revitalized. One of the important aspect of organizing such picnics is to allow members to interact with each other, thereby giving opportunity to bond with each other. For EMA, it helps to get valuable feedback of the activities, and eventually the new ideas.

This event has been successfully conducted for the past twenty four years, not only because of the hard work of the concerned committee but also because of the support and patronage of members and sponsors. These trips try to incorporate to some beautiful tourist centers along with a factory visit, wherever possible. A visit to a religious place within the vicinity is an added bonus. Last year apart from visiting the Golden Temple and Wagah border at Amritsar, members also visited the Great white factory at Haridwar. In short, the endeavor is to ensure a complete package to participating members.

The pilot trip taken by the committee assured that the best possible services and hotels were short listed for the trip. The result was that the trip was fully booked within a few days and around ninety members had enrolled by then. The touring party embarked from Bandra terminus on the 28th of February, assured of comfort, fun and leisure, covering four days of adventure and togetherness.

Early morning on the 1st March, members were served breakfast and tea at Surendranagar. On reaching Dhola, members left for Sasan Gir by bus and reached the destination in three hours' time. Hotel Fern Fir Resort at Gir is a luxurious four star property, beautifully built and located right at the edge of the core jungle, is very popular with both Indian and international adventure tourists. Covered with dense vegetation and surrounded by hills, it is very popular as a forest resort.

On the arrival at the Hotel Fern resort, members were served with sumptuous lunch. Apart from mouthwatering dishes, the ambience of the restaurant was superb. Spacious 20 Cottages and 8 villas were booked for the members.

Members assembled at 7pm in the lawns of the resort, where resort management had arranged a local tribal dance. Welcoming the members, President Mr. Niren Dharia requested all participants to introduce themselves along with their line of business. Chairman Mr. Nitin Gandhi thanked the members for their support and co-operation and requested them to extend the same support throughout and also the same for the next year which will be the 25th trip in the current format. While the cultural event was getting ready Mr. Jatin Modi kept the members occupied with a game of house.

Early morning on the 2nd of March, members boarded jeeps at 5.14 a.m. and left for the jungle safari, which was a three hour ride, covering 35 kms. The anticipation of sighting the famous Indian lion was high on everybody's mind. The spirit of adventure that had made them travel so far, was now evident and expectations were high.

Gir National Park and Wildlife Sanctuary, now known as wildlife protected area, is a dense deciduous forest. It has innumerable species of various plants as well as animals. The vegetation of this place is rich because of presence of various favorable factors, such as several perennial rivers that flow through this area. It experiences all the three seasons. Rich biodiversity of this area makes it favorite spot for scientific study by biologists from all parts of the world. Teak trees dominate the Gir area. Nearly half of the forest is teak forest. Members were lucky to spot Asiatic Lions, chital, Nilgai, Sambar, four-horned antelope, chinkara and wild boar.

After a brief period of relaxation, members then left for the historic Somnath temple, which is around 42 kms from Sasan Gir. Here the committee had special arrangements for darshan and Aarti, thanks to the efforts of Mr. Mukesh Modi of International Indenting Corp. Arrangements for a special light and sound were also made. This show depicted the entire history of the Somnath temple, starting from its origin to the present.

The Somnath temple, standing serenely at the tip of the paisley-shaped Kathiawar peninsula, is one of the most celebrated shrines of Shiva in India - in tradition, history and in the modern context. One of the twelve holy Jyotirlingas in India - the first named by Jagadguru Adi Shankaracharya in his famous Dwadashajyotirlinga Stotra - it has witnessed several eras of unimaginable riches and power since the Vedic era, interspersed with devastation and desecration. Today, the temple, standing majestically at the tip of the Gujarat peninsula, occupies a special place in the hearts of millions of Indians because of its antiquity and its aura of purity, sanctity and eternity. It is modern India's shrine, visited by millions of people of all faiths as one of India's greatest historic monuments.

Against this background of mystique, mythology, history and modernity, the various episodes of the Sound and Light Show at the shrine have been planned to highlight all facets of the historic site. The show weaves the three strands of the narrative - mythical, historical and modern - to put together the fabric of the story of Somnath in the most spectacular

Dear Shri Niren Bhai

First of all , let me congratulate full team of EMA for organising such a fine tour. My special thank to Shri. Nitin bhai and his entire picnic committee for planning and better execution of entire tour programme. My special appreciation to Shri. Jatin Modi for entertaining us during long bus journey and arranging Thandai on Maha-Shivratri day and arranging to bring sweets from Amreli to enable members to carry home back some sweets with them. Brightest part of EMA is , we have 2nd Generation team of young Brigades ready to carry on the best practice of EMA evolved by your team. Now a days youngsters are not taking much interest in these type of activities , but to my pleasant surprise , here whole young team under your guidance had taken over responsibilities & have helped either serving food in train or helping seniors like us in movement of luggage etc. I have been member of EMA for more than 50 years but did not participate in any of the tour of EMA. Now I regret as to how much I have missed. In all it was a wonderful trip and I look forward to your future programme.

With warm regards

IMC SME CONCLAVE: INDUSTRY 4.0 (Make Mittelstand in India)

EMA committee keeping in mind the objective and the vision has been actively organizing activities for the betterment of its members and even participating in the programs organized by the affiliated Associations. EMA, member of IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry attended SME conclave on 13th March 2019 at Taj lands, Bandra West to understand the opportunity for MSME's future in relation to their business prospects.

IMC is an apex chamber in India promoting interests of trade, commerce and Industry, representing voice of its members to various levels of Government. It holds around 200 conferences, seminars and workshops annually on a range of economic, political and social issues.

The conclave focused on making Mittelstand in India. Mittelstand stands for small and medium enterprises contemplating and applying Industry 4.0 in their manufacturing base. The Conclave enlightened the concept of "Smart Factories", the requirement for the future growth of India. The successful model of Mittelstand in Germany was discussed in length by Mr. Bernard Steinruecke, Director-General- Indo-German Chamber of Commerce and Dr. Jurgen Morhard, Consul General of Germany in Mumbai. They requested IMC to adopt the German Industrial practices to pioneer the cyber-physical integration of Manufacturing to drive efficiency, innovation and competitiveness.

Smart factories, as they are called, have big advantages over conventional factories in terms of cost competitiveness, flexibility to serve individual customer needs better, lower cycle time, better utilization of capacity by accessing markets effectively and by lower down time through predictive maintenance. The cost of adopting Cyber-Physical Technologies is dropping as the market grows and as software developers and integrators from India and China enter the fray.

EMA committee lead by President Mr. Niren Dharja were invited to be part of this conclave, where in dignitaries from German Chamber of Commerce, Industrial Automation and New Technologies, Skill Development, Credit Solution and SME financing extensively discussed on adapting the Industry 4.0 Revolution. EMA committee had opportunity to meet Ms Iris Becker from Lets Bridge IT, India. Her company based at Pune promotes and initiates Indo-German collaboration. Her presentation invited members to the city of Karlsruhe- considered the hub of Science of Technology of Germany and world Industry 4.0. On the request from the EMA committee, she agreed to send her representative for organizing interactive seminar for EMA member's kids, helping them to go to Germany for the study in Robotics, Data Analytics, and Internet of Things etc.

EMA Committee also had the opportunity to meet expert on the Global family Managed Business head Mr. Parimal Merchant, who agreed to deliver lecture for EMA members on how to induct next generation members in family business.

Committee is grateful to IMC for organizing interactive conclave helping their members to network with each other and opportunity to partner with other countries.

EMA Managing Committee requests members to exercise their valuable vote on 29th April 2019 for better future of India.

This summer will see a carnival of democracy in the general election. Much has changed in just five years. The elan of Narendra Modi's party has far been revitalised after the Pulwama attack. Key opponents, the Samajwadi Party and the Bahujan Samaj Party, joined forces in Uttar Pradesh, making the contest real and not a walkover. The Index of Opposition Unity cannot predict outcomes but no one can afford to ignore it.

The "Congress victories in the Assembly elections in three north Indian State shave given it a shot in the arm. Equally important, the older party is firming up alliances in the southern States. The 131 Loksabha seats in five States (Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Kerala, Tamil Nadu and Telangana) and two Union Territories (Lakshadweep and Pondicherry) have been critical to it in times of trouble.

The Telangana poll outcome was sobering for both the large national parties. Regional nationalism is not new to Indian politics: Jammu and Kashmir and Tamil Nadu were precursors. Regional formations have long governed West Bengal, Odisha and now Telangana. They may well hold the keys to power in New Delhi. In 2014, it was the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) that led in securing allies. Between then and now, BJP president Amit Shah has helped expand its footprint. Not only does it have more MLAs than the Congress, but its cadre fights every election like there is no tomorrow.

The challenge lies elsewhere. The Congress may have lost in 2014 and come down to a historic low of less than one in five votes cast. Yet, only a decade age, in May 2009, the roles had been in reverse. It was Congress that had then polled 29% and the BJP just 19% of the popular vote.

THE POLL PLANKS

In 2014, the challenger drew on the tiredness with a decade of a Congress-led government and promised a fresh start. Runaway inflation and the spectre of corruption undercut the appeal of the Congress. This time the issues have changed. It is the squeeze on farm incomes and rural debt that are the key poll planks. Similarly, the issue of jobs is more pressing than ever. Cultivators across all strata and young people seeking productive employment want answers.

Two States are key. Maharashtra, a State critical in the histories of both the Congress and the BJP, is not only seeing a coming together of Opposition forces; it is undergoing drought and rural distress. Ominously, key farmer-led allies have walked across. Uttar Pradesh, a bastion of the BJP, has rival Dalit- and Mandal-led parties coalesce for the first time in a quarter century. Both States have something in common. In both, sugarcane cultivation is a determinant of electoral fortunes.

Cane (not caste) and jobs (not community slogans) may hold the key. Ganna and Naukri, not reservations or the emotive Mandir issue. What matters more: bread or identity? Even when both count what takes precedence?

Government policy has had a key role in this denouement. By according priority to consumers in cities (who want low prices for cereals, oil seeds and pulses), the government did not have to pay heed to rural residents who need to earn more. The latter, as producers, are larger in number and percentage than in any other democracy.

India still lives and votes in its villages. Under Mr. Shah, the cadre, organisation and outreach have made the BJP a vastly larger party than any other. But economic policies can strain such organisational gains.

Democracy is about more than development. In a polity where people can throw their rulers out, it is centrally about politics. Since 1999, there has been a bi-nodal system, and the choice is not simply between Mr. Modi and Congress president Rahul Gandhi.

THE BATTLE LINES

We have effectively a one-party government with a firm hand on the wheel (but with the danger of an over-centralisation of power). Against this, is ranged a looser coalition in which regional forces and rural interests have more play. Needless to add, the latter will be rockier, more contentious and tough to manage in a coherent fashion.

The Modi government is driven by ideology and not pragmatism on a range of issues. This is the first ever BJP government with a view of culture, history and politics that seeks to remake history as much as the future. Is this the party's agenda or the country's? This is a question in the background: if the Ram temple issue comes to the fore, it will be a major choice for the voter.

The pluralism and Hindutva debate have another dimension more so than ever, namely the federal question. Across the Northeast (including Sikkim), far more important to the country than its 25 Lok Sabha seats indicate, the idea of citizenship is at variance with the new Citizenship Bill passed by the Lok Sabha. Across the country, State-level parties see an accretion of powers in the federal government unseen since the 80s.

True, Mr. Modi has a wider mass appeal than any one since Mrs. Gandhi. But history is witness that such appeal can also have limits if voters decide that enough is enough. Has that point been reached? We simply do not know.

More central is the question of questions. Are you better off than you were five years ago, and if not, why not? If so, and even if not, do you think we are moving in the right direction?

MARCH 22, WORLD WATER DAY

Research - India staring at severe water crisis, among worst in the world: Research Country's water footprint is 3,000 litres per day, highest in the globe, says report

India tops the list of countries with the most number of people living with water scarcity during at least one part of the year, and is facing the worst water crisis in its history, said a new report by global non-profit organisation Water Aid. "With 0.6 billion people living in water scarcity during at least one part of the year and around 600 million living in areas of high to extreme water stress, India is suffering from the worst water crisis in its history," said the report, titled "Beneath the Surface: The State of the World's Water 2019".

Around the globe, a population of 4 billion live in areas that are water-scarce, and 844 million don't have access to drinking water near their homes, the latest report from Water Aid says.

The organization's 'Beneath the Surface: The State of the Worlds Water 2019 report was launched on World Water Day on 22 March 2019. It addresses the footprint of consumption for sustainable production and sensible consumption.

The Environmental Protection Agency also recently stated that scarce water supply is a bigger threat to the globe today than climate change, which is getting a lot of political attention worldwide. The Water Aid report adds that the water crisis is getting worse, and yet, the consumption today is six times as much as 100 years ago. Driving this surge are population growth, dietary changes and consumer habits.

Also part of the report is a list of countries where the largest populations live with scarce water supply, how consumer demand for water jeopardises access for the poor and marginalised, and how mindful consumption will ensure that water for essential needs is made a priority – globally.

"The amount of water needed to create a product is its water footprint," the report reads. "The amount of water we each use physically each day for washing and drinking is dwarfed by our virtual water use."

"Virtual water" goes into making most things we use and consume. For instance, ground coffee hides the water that goes into irrigation of coffee plant, processing and grinding the coffee beans. So does a leather bag or a new phone. Actual water consumption is dwarfed compared to one's virtual water footprint in almost all cases.

India has a population of 0.6 billion living without clean water supply during at least one part of the year, out of which 600 million live in moderate to extreme levels of water stress. Yet, India is also the largest consumer of groundwater – 24 percent of the global total, the report says.

"Villagers report that the search for water dominates their lives during the summer months, when many hand pumps go dry. At others, people can wait for hours for a single bucket of water," the report reads.

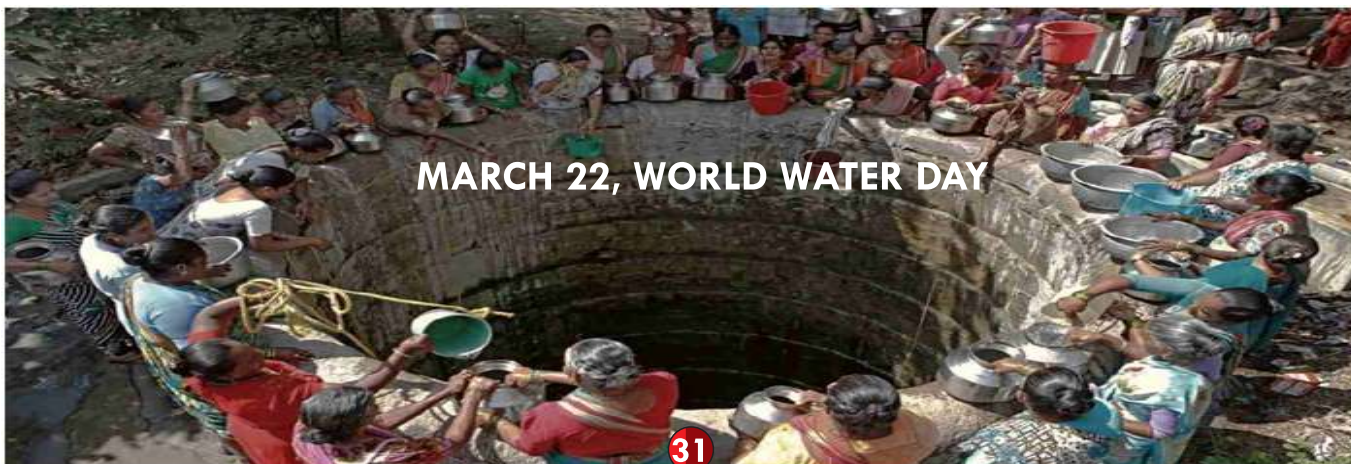

Water Aid predicts that India will be on the same boat as China, Southern Africa, USA and Australia, face "high water stress" levels by 2040. It also makes several suggestions as to how the scenario can be turned around – for everyone, everywhere to have access to safe water when and where they need it by 2030.

For one, water, sanitation and hygiene projects need to be taken up and given priority funding. The important role that governments play in addition is to protect the human right to clean water as a right and better monitor water consumption. It also goes on to give specific calls to action for businesses, retailers and consumers.

Currently, India stands at rank 120 among 122 countries in the water quality index, with 75 percent of households in the country lacking a supply to drinking water where they live, stated the report.

The government of India has committed to fulfilling the United Nations Sustainable Development Goal 6, which promises that everyone will have access to clean water for sanitation and hygiene by 2030.

The fundamental human right to water should be on top of the priority list followed by other competing demands. For citizens, using water judiciously and encouraging reuse of water are the biggest undertakings to be aware of, to reduce their visible water consumption and virtual water footprint.
